

SULZER PUTS SELF ABOVE HIGH COURT OF IMPEACHMENT

Attorneys for the Government Challenge the Organization of the Court and Its Jurisdiction Over the Accused

SESSION OF THE COURT
MARKED BY SOLEMNITY

Gov. Sulzer Did Not Appear in Person, But Remained in "People's House"—St.
Witnesses Missing.

SUMMARY OF THE CHARGES AGAINST GOVERNOR SULZER
Albany, N. Y., September 18.—Eight articles of impeachment voted against Governor Sulzer by the assembly today.

That he fled with the secretary of state a false statement of his receipts and other monetary transactions during his gubernatorial campaign.

That he committed perjury in the statement.

That he bribed witnesses to withhold testimony from the committee which investigated his campaign accounts.

That he suppressed evidence in means of threats to keep witness from testifying before the committee.

That he dissuaded a witness, Frederick L. Colwell, from attending under subpoena, the committee.

That he committed larceny speculating in stocks with money contributed by his campaign.

That as governor he threatened use his office and influence to avert the vote of certain public officers. That while governor he corrupted the authority of the courts by securities on the New York Stock Exchange, in some of which securities he was at the time interested.

Albany, N. Y., September 18.—WILL SUITZER, governor of New York, charged by the assembly with high crimes and misdemeanors, appeared in court today before the high court of impeachment. When it convened to be the trial which will determine his fate, the governor insisted his attorney "entered a special plea" on the governor's behalf and challenged organization of the court and its jurisdiction over the accused.

The court, however, refused to accede temporarily by Chief Judge EDWARD M. CULLEN of the court of appeals, siding, and the impeachment trial will proceed.

The court courted all night and adjourned an hour later until tomorrow to permit a committee of three to prepare and report rules of procedure. Objection was interposed to a ruling that the court was not bound by the judges of the court of appeals—James Miller, Charles and Hisecock—be invited to sit with the selective jury as members of the high court.

The first challenge came when at Mr. James J. Frawley was called to take the oath. Senator Frawley protested that he was not a member of the assembly board of managers, which the assembly board of managers had elected to sit with the judges.

Admitting the right to challenge Judge Cullen ruled that members of the assembly board of managers in proceedings were taken and Senator Frawley took the oath.

Then the court announced that the officers Ramberger and Sanner, members of the Frawley committee, would be sworn in.

The vice president and field secretary of the congress, William D. Upham, has an-

The underlying motive of the congress is to show the inseparable connection be-evil. The character of the appeal and the non-demonstrational complexion of the speakers should assure large houses.

The Constitution is on sale in New York city at 4 p. m. the day after issue.
It can be had at Hottel's, 100 Broadway, and at the Post-Office, 100 Broadway, corner, Thirty-ninth street and Broadway, and Twenty-ninth street and Broadway.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents.

A SENSIBLE DECISION.
The board of police commissioners have at last settled upon a definite policy with regard to the arrested question of arrests for trivial offenses.

Chief Beavers will permit fewer arrests such in the future. Where there is cause for complaint, a copy of charges, citing officers to the recorder's court, will be given.

Now that uncertainty in this direction is settled, let's get down to business in the matter of genuine law enforcement and of upholding the hands of the chief to that end.

The copy-of-charges method is infinitely preferable, in trivial offenses, to riding around armed men or women or both in the back of the patrol wagon. It is followed in every city with pretensions to size and up-to-dateness in methods.

And the public safety and public morals are better protected by the copy plan than the arrest plan. If the accused does not appear at the bar of court, he or she is in contempt as is any other court, and punishment accordingly. In the interim between the serving of the copy and the court session, cool investigation will often disclose that no prosecution is necessary, that prosecution indeed would be the worst and most cruel course under the circumstances.

The chief has stated that he is not in sympathy with punitive arrests, or arrests for inconsequential offenses. His ability and conscientiousness are unquestioned.
No one has challenged his courage.

Fortunately, the department and the public now know where they stand. The atmosphere here has been clarified. Henceforth, there will or should be little danger of Atlanta's perspective being confused, to the end that it will confront pitiful indications with honest crime. As Bishop Hoss said, to call something a sin is to risk grading down the general conception of sin until people lose sight of its enormity.

That was the menace in the chaotic condition which recently existed in Atlanta, with "crime" substituted for "sin," and which has largely been eliminated by the ruling of the board. The honesty and common sense of Chief Beavers may be expected to do the rest.

HOW ATLANTA JEWS GIVE.
Last Sunday The Constitution showed editorially how the Jews of Chicago give to charity in immensely superior ratio to all other combined sects and religions. We stated then that the same disparity, in favor of the Jew, would apply to Atlanta.

Our assumption is startlingly borne out in a communication, published elsewhere, from H. Joseph Hyman, superintendent of the Jewish National Alliance of Atlanta.
According to Mr. Hyman, the Associated Charities, assumedly dominated by Gentles, had an income in 1911 of $14,817.71.
The income of the Federation of Jewish Charities for the same year was $12,294.58.
Jews in Atlanta number only about 4 per cent of the population. They contribute nearly 50 per cent of the charity funds.
Seven per cent of the Associated Charities' income was contributed by Jews; of the Charities' membership, 10 per cent are Jews.
Remember that 37 per cent of Atlanta's Jewish population, which is only 4 per cent of the total, is composed of Russian Jews,
"newly arrived and poverty stricken."

Remember, too, that when the Jews subscribe they pay, the Associated Charities is now struggling between life and death because of $3,000 in pledges unpaid.

Jewish charity never has to beg for existence. It never has to take oxygen to keep it alive. The Jew gives and he gives continuously, religiously.

FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

With the fundamental purpose of harmonizing religion, to civic endeavor, the Southern Christian Citizenship Congress will begin its sessions in the Auditorium-Army this evening, the concluding session to come Sunday afternoon, Governor Slaton will preside tonight, and the speakers will be Dr. H. M. DuBois, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church; Hon. A. J. Orem, the bishop-reformer, of Boston, and others.

The other sessions will be addressed by clerks of practically all the demonstrations in Atlanta, by prominent club women, work.

Just From Georgia

By FRANK L. STANTON

Listening to His Dream.
Easy chair to him there is the firelight's gleam; Father's dreaming in it, and we listen to the dream.

"Money for the hills
That hide the Christmas
till the hills
While they come in reg-larly, and we listen to the tinkling tinkle."

"While the folks were on vacation I never showered golden nuggets from the depths of the mine."

"Nuggets for the hills
That bring the Christmas chills,
And now the song of money beats the sweetest whip-poor-wills!"

That's the dream he's dreaming as we listen,
And it seems Too and to have to wake him when he's dreaming golden dreams!

A crusty it is.
Shakes his bright curls over his brow and
wakes him with a kiss!

A Colleague in the Field.
"In the far springtime," said the Cotton,
"I dreamed the dream of the harvest
today in fields with the harvest I have made. I come to clothe the children of the world when winter winds are keen, and the whole world gives thanks
for me."

"Same here," said the Corn. "I give those same world-children their daily bread, and I get the blessings to my own! And I am transformed, into that which cheers the hearts of men; for only just now an Austrian broke down over the fields and told me that when it left a certain place in the dry mountain side, old cattle and young and old were creaking, and a dozen old-time fiddlers
were reeling off jig tunes, and the very hills
were clapping for joy!"

And the Cotton didn't know enough to tell him that it was "all moonshine!"

The following advertisement is said to have appeared in an English newspaper:
"A lady's husband who is an experienced cock driver, employment in a house where there is no noise-for women and children,
and where will be permitted to keep his own hen. He is of the Protestant faith and steady and industrious."

Song of the Race-Hummers.
Think not that the folk you've laid
up in the valley say:
"Cause you kick a football higher than you'll ever kick a football."
When you're on the hilltop, high above 'em all,
Folks in the valley say: "He's lookin'
mighty small!"

Mytime and playtime.
In winter, wind and gray.
The world match you at the tolling.
And you'll find at the play.

Think not that the country will go to wreck
and wrong
"Cause you didn't get the office you've been running for so long.
Chased it like a rainbow—speeding night
and day.

But the winning one as able as yourself
to lead the way.
"Life time and strife time."
The world's a game, you know,
To rest is to miss a minute—
Suffering got your ground!

Another of the Tightwads.
This is a story from the South Mountain
"Tightwad" never gets full credit for his sacrifice when he does actually get a nickel. When you consider the pain such an operation inflicts on him, when you note
the war that suffers his whole system when so much of his life blood is extracted from him, when you realize that he is giving up
a part of his very life when he lets loose
of a cent, for heaven's sake consider his suffering and give him credit accordingly.

"Who's the 'Tightwad'?"
The following is from a poem of seasons
by W. L. Garrison, Jr.
"How well it doth behave us now
To welcome sun and heat—
To greet with joy the pelting rain
Where ever it may beat—
To cherish every season's change
As each to us is sent.
Knowing, we best serve ourselves
Who cherish 'em!"

Uncle Ben's Last Fiddle.
This is a story from the South Mountain
"Tightwad" never gets full credit for his sacrifice when he does actually get a nickel. When you consider the pain such an operation inflicts on him, when you note
the war that suffers his whole system when
so much of his life blood is extracted from
him, when you realize that he is giving up
a part of his very life when he lets loose
of a cent, for heaven's sake consider his suffering and give him credit accordingly.

The Rejected.
When Joy has come for to lift his load,
With recompense for losses,
They'll be his—
It's his busy day.

So, Joy was whistling on the road—
And to the winds he tossed
And but this word
"Still counting his cruel crosses!"

The Critics' General Folly.
This one came over the lawn from the garden to the falling citizen:
"I never saw a cabbage plant
Or pumpkin vine that ran
The vine, crotchet, crotchet it can't."
"The corn at this price!" cried the ear.
"The best blundered red."
The ear was a good one, but it was
"Wait rotten stuff," they said.

from the depths of
the mine."

"Nuggets for the hills
That bring the Christmas chills,
And now the song of money beats the sweet-
est whip-poor-wills!"

That's the dream he's dreaming as we listen,
And it seems
dreaming golden dreams!

A crusty it is.
Shakes his bright curls over his brow and
wakes him with a kiss!

A Colleague in the Field.
"In the far springtime," said the Cotton,
"I dreamed the dream of the harvest
today in fields with the harvest I have made. I come to clothe the children of the world when winter winds are keen, and the whole world gives thanks
for me."

"Same here," said the Corn. "I give those same world-children their daily bread, and I get the blessings to my own! And I am transformed, into that which cheers the hearts of men; for only just now an Austrian broke down over the fields and
told me that when it left a certain
place in the dry mountain side, old
cattle and young and old were creak-
ing, and a dozen old-time fiddlers
were reeling off jig tunes, and the very hills
were clapping for joy!"

And the Cotton didn't know enough to tell him that it was "all moonshine!"

The following advertisement is said to
have appeared in an English newspaper:
"A lady's husband who is an experienced
cock driver, employment in a house where
there is no noise-for women and children,
and where will be permitted to keep his own hen. He is of the Protestant faith and
steady and industrious."

Song of the Race-Hummers.
Think not that the folk you've laid
up in the valley say:
"Cause you kick a football higher than you'll
ever kick a football."
When you're on the hilltop, high above 'em all,
Folks in the valley say: "He's lookin'
mighty small!"

Mytime and playtime.
In winter, wind and gray.
The world match you at the tolling.
And you'll find at the play.

Think not that the country will go to wreck
and wrong
"Cause you didn't get the office you've been
running for so long.
Chased it like a rainbow—speeding night
and day.

But the winning one as able as yourself
to lead the way.
"Life time and strife time."
The world's a game, you know,
To rest is to miss a minute—
Suffering got your ground!

Another of the Tightwads.
This is a story from the South Mountain
"Tightwad" never gets full credit for his sacrifice when he does actually get a nickel. When you consider the pain such an operation inflicts on him, when you note
the war that suffers his whole system when
so much of his life blood is extracted from
him, when you realize that he is giving up
a part of his very life when he lets loose
of a cent, for heaven's sake consider his suffering and give him credit accordingly.

The Rejected.
When Joy has come for to lift his load,
With recompense for losses,
They'll be his—
It's his busy day.

So, Joy was whistling on the road—
And to the winds he tossed
And but this word
"Still counting his cruel crosses!"

The Critics' General Folly.
This one came over the lawn from the
garden to the falling citizen:
"I never saw a cabbage plant
Or pumpkin vine that ran
The vine, crotchet, crotchet it can't."
"The corn at this price!" cried the ear.
"The best blundered red."
The ear was a good one, but it was
"Wait rotten stuff," they said.

I WOULD DIE"

Expression Used by Mrs. McGee in Describing the Terrible Agonies She Underwent.

Stephenville, Texas.—"For ten years," says Mrs. Jay McGee, of this place, "I suffered from womanly troubles. I had terrible headaches, pains in my back etc.

My husband told me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, but I did not think anything would do me any good.

It seemed as though I would die. I suffered so. At last, I consented to try Cardui, and it seemed to help me right away. I was interested, and continued its use.

The full treatment not only helped me, but it cured me. It will do the same for all sick or suffering sick or women—both married and unmarried.

I will always praise Cardui, the woman's tonic, highly, for it has been the means of saving my life and giving me good health."

Other women, who suffer as Mrs. McGee did, should profit by her experience, and get relief, as she did, by taking Cardui, the woman's tonic.

For women's pains, for womanly troubles, for nervousness, weakness, etc., its 50 years of splendid success, has proven that Cardui is a good remedy, prompt, reliable and harmless.

Cardui is almost sure to help you and will leave no disagreeable after-effects. Try it.

BUTLER MUST SERVE

SENTENCE IN PEN

Man Who Permanently Disabled

Marshal of Whigham Must Pay the Penalty.

Governor Stanton yesterday morning declined to approve the recommendation of the prison commission granting parole to H. M. Deane, 415 South Prior street, on Friday, September 19, at 4 p. m.

The city marshal and mayor of Whigham, Ga., were walking along the street yesterday when they heard a loud and boisterous conduct in a lively stable. The mayor told the marshal to go in and stop it. The marshal attempted to stop the one creating the most of the disturbance, the uncle of the defendant.

Both the uncle and defendant were drinking. The defendant threatened to shoot the marshal, the bullet entering the base of the nose, between the eyes, cutting the optic nerve and destroying the sight of one eye, besides passing on the brain and causing epileptic fits. The presence of the evidence establishes these facts, and the jury so found with the approval of the court.

The marshal in the performance of his duty has suffered irreparable injury. I find no reason for executive clemency and decline to approve the recommendation of the prison commission.

This September 18, 1912.

TRAVELER RETURNS BEARING WAR PASS OF 50 YEARS AGO

Bringing in his pocket the old and blured war pass on which he left Atlanta at the close of the civil war, R. Dunning, of New Haven, Conn., returned to Atlanta yesterday to view the "almost unbelievable transformation" wrought in the Gate City of the South by the passing years.

Mr. Dunning was then a tot in his mother's arms, the pass being issued in the name of his father, reading, "To Reuben S. Dunning, wife and two children." The pass was signed by Provost Marshal General G. H. McDu-field, who died about a year ago. Mr. Dunning had placed the interesting relic in a small glass case in order to preserve it for his children.

Having been on a trip through the south, on which he stopped in Chattanooga for a few days to see the Grand Army of the Republic reunion, Mr. Dunning took the train for Atlanta in order to see the city once more. He had been back only once since the war, leaving again in 1870, and so this was the first glimpse of Atlanta he had got in thirty-one years.

DR. JACOBS AND BRIDE
BACK FROM HONEYMOON

Dr. Joseph Jacobs, who has just returned with his bride from a honeymoon in Europe, not only denied the report that he had purchased the famous Glenriddle Burns manuscript, but also denied the fact that $25,000 should have been offered for the papers when such an amount of money at the disposal of the Burns club of America and Europe could be used to no much great advantage for the purpose of collecting all of Burns' relics under a single roof.

"I not only did not purchase the papers, but made no such offer," said Dr. Jacobs.

"Had I that much money to spend upon the relics of Robert Burns I am sure that I would not spend it in that way, and while I have no idea who could have made the offer, I am sorry that a Burns-lover chose not to use his funds to more advantage."

"I believe that if whoever made the offer would head a movement with that much money to assemble all the Burns relics under a single roof where they may be cared for properly it would be a great thing."

"It is shameful the way the relics of Robert Burns are now scattered broadcast in saloons and taverns, some even advertising them as inducements to drink."

"There is a grave question in my mind as to the moral and legal right of the Liverpool auctioneer to dispose of the Glenriddle manuscript, but that he is a gentleman is beyond dispute."

Dr. Jacobs declared that his trip in Europe was most delightful, but that he is glad to be back in Atlanta once more. The doctor is looking well and says that he never felt better. All day Thursday scores of his friends called to shake hands with him and welcome him back with his bride.

He has been spending some time in Paris, accompanying them in Atlanta, and she is at the Georgian Terrace.

Four well-known lawyers have been engaged to defend the bailiff, who is charged with murder. The officer was claiming the discharge of his pistol was accidental.

Check Trousers May Solve
Woodward 'Bomb' Mystery

City hall is teeming with mystery. The "glimmer" of the Woodward-McConnell joint debate has been doused. The heavy-bomb equilibrium of the executive office has been disturbed. The heavy-bomb equilibrium of the executive office has been disturbed.

It makes no difference whether one favors speaking on the steps of the capitol or at the foot of Gray monument. Wilson can order a corporal's guard into Meade to treat Huerfano to a smoking or Harry Thaw can go to Meade for a habes corpus. City hall folks can't rest. The new $25,000 cransitory can topple from its pedestal for eight city officials care. The pesky question of the day is:

"Who tried to blow 'Uncle Jim' Woodward up?"

Two city officials are under suspicion, according to City Marshal James Bottom Fuller. One will be exposed within twenty-four hours, and his punishment will be a ten-minute session with Mayor Woodward at a time when he is busily engaged writing veto messages to council. Or, he may be ordered to do duty on the city dog pound.

Fuller says something. "I am hot on the scent and expect to have the guilty party in custody shortly."

City Marshal Fuller made the above statement exclusively to The Constitution Thursday afternoon.

Every pseudo sleuth around the hall has his nose to the ground. Theories are as thick as flies on a dog. Post-office Inspector H. M. Graham could set a few helpful hints from almost any city official.

But the fact remains the mystery is unsolved despite the unusual activity of city hall analysts.

The bomb which was received by Mayor Woodward with a batch of mail Thursday morning has been returned. Along with it is a report from the postoffice authorities that the substance contained in the package was not nitro-glycerin. Nor was it dynamite. It was carbon dioxide. Carbon used by soda water manufacturers. It puts gas in water, and is harmless.

Who, in retaliation ever get it into his noods that Mayor Woodward needed anything to make good? His honor declares with emphasis that he needed no retaliator.

So, why the carbon? Unless the culprit confesses the mystery may remain a mystery ever and anon.

Letter T Also Forwarded.

The postoffice authorities submitted the handwriting of the address to Georgia. They declare that the "T" in Atlanta was written by one of two men. Which? Marshal Fuller says he knows.

The postoffice officials declare that the package was mailed at the postoffice at 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

Now, Marshal Fuller says he saw one of the men under suspicion enter the postoffice a few minutes before 9 o'clock.

I recognized him by his trousers," Marshal Fuller said. "When I first saw him walking along Forsyth street I thought someone had hung out a crazy quilt to stir up a crowd."

City hall folks are determined that the man who tried to blow up the city hall is a genuine "cuss."

Someone is due a genuine "cuss."

MERCER AND WESLEYAN
HAVE BIG ENROLLMENTS

Expected That 400 Will Attend Mercer-College Girls Warned to Let Politics Alone.

Macon, Ga., September 18.—(Special.)—Mercer university and Wesleyan college have both begun their 1913-14 seasons, both with enrollments of students which far surpass those of any previous years.

The formal opening of Mercer university was held today, the chapel meeting being marked by addresses by a number of well-known educators and others. Chief among these was Dr. G. A. Nunnally, of Rome, who for five years was a president of Mercer.

Dr. Nunnally took occasion to tell the students that the loss of one man would possibly have no effect on an institution built as solidly as Mercer.

He referred to Dr. S. J. Jamison, whose resignation was asked for and received several months ago by the board of trustees.

In addition to Dr. Nunnally's talk there were short talks by Prof. J. F. Phillips, acting president of Mercer; Prof. C. R. Jenkins, president of Wesleyan college; Prof. H. C. Bruce, superintendent of the schools of Bibb county; Mayor John T. Moore; Judge J. G. McCall, president of the Mercer board of trustees; M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of education; and Dr. M. A. Clark, of the Mercer Alumni association.

It was reported at the chapel exercises that the enrollment this year was much greater than in previous years, the dormitory already being filled. It is expected by tomorrow the enrollment will reach 400.

Wesleyan female college held its formal opening yesterday morning. The enrollment was greater by fifteen students than on any previous year, though not all of the young women had arrived at that time.

The principal address to the Wesleyan girls was made by Dr. O. L. Keiser, secretary of the educational department of the North Georgia Methodist conference. He took occasion to warn the young women to let politics alone and not strive to obtain the ballot.

"Women cannot successfully control business or politics, but by the means of her gentler qualities, modest ways and love, she can control the man, who in turn, can do these things," said Dr. Keiser. "There is much incidence in the home than there is in politics. Women was made to direct the affairs in the home and not in the office in which she should use her influence."

Some people have so much luck they are inclined to make a religion of it.

SEARCH FOR NEGRO WHO ATTACKED AGED WOMAN

Mrs. Bessie O'Connor Lying at the Point of Death at the Grady Hospital.

Choked and thrown down a stairway by a negro burglar, Mrs. Bessie O'Connor, of 421 1/2 Edgewood avenue, as in Grady hospital at death's door, she sustained internal injuries and a probable fracture of the skull.

She was in her apartment at the Edgewood avenue address early yesterday afternoon, when a negro invaded the room apparently for robbery.

When the aged woman attempted to flee he grabbed her by the throat as she crossed the doorway, choking her almost insensible, and throwing her body down the stairway.

The injured woman is more than 60 years and is a deaf mute. As her body reached the sidewalk the black assailant sped down Edgewood avenue.

An accurate description had been given of him by pedestrians who witnessed his flight.

Mrs. O'Connor was carried at once to Grady hospital. Nothing was taken from her apartment.

COTTON STARTED OFF AT ADVANCE

But Lower Liverpool Cables and Realizing Cashed Market to Close Barely Steady at Loss of 5 to 9 Points.

New York, September 18.—There was heavy realizing in the cotton market today, and after making new high records for the season, under a renewal of yesterday's buying movement, prices closed off, closing barely steady at a net decline of 5 to 9 points.

There was quite an excited demand at the start, owing to higher Liverpool cables, larger English spot sales, continued crop complaints and yesterday's late reports of a firmer southern situation.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 15 points, with December contracts selling at 14.00 or 18.45 per bale above the low in 1912.

A good deal of the demand went for an overnight buying order which was readily executed at the new high level of prices, however, and the market soon turned easier, under the influence of local and southern selling.

On a break of 10 to 15 points from the heat, there was a temporary decline and prices rallied several points, but on each bulge there was a reaction, and the cotton for sale and the market weakened again during the afternoon, under general realizing and scattered selling for a reaction.

Closing prices were the lowest of the day. Prospects for clearing weather in the south led to predictions of an increased movement of 10 to 15 points, offerings, which may have contributed to the reactionary tendency, while part of the selling may also have been inspired by reports that the labor situation in England was becoming unsatisfactory.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to small offerings, covering and trade buying, but claimed that trade cables from Manchester were unfavorable and that the higher prices asked were checking business in various reports from the domestic goods trade continued to indicate an active and advancing market.

GEN. HUERTA A COLD FEET IN AZ HOME

Order Taken to Mean Huerta Won't Be a Candidate and Will Throw His Influence to Felix Diaz.

HUERTA IS FAVORED BY CATHOLIC PARTY
After the Murder of Madero, Gen. Huerta Pledged Himself to Support Felix Diaz for the Presidency.

Mexico City, September 18.—Instructions have been sent by President Huerta to General Felix Diaz, who now is in Europe, to return immediately to Mexico. It is expected that he will sail within a few days.

This fact is viewed with high authority and is regarded here as indicating that General Huerta intends to abide by the pact signed at the American embassy last February to place no obstacle in the path of General Diaz in candidacy for the presidency.

It is considered possible that General Huerta will throw his influence to Diaz, which would practically insure his election.

The partisans of Diaz have reacted to his inaction and assert that they have organized an "anti-Huerta" "club" throughout the republic. It is the present General Diaz is the only candidate in the field.

Catholics Favor Huerta.

The Catholics here, which is the only big organization likely to put forward a candidate in opposition to Huerta, have convention several weeks ago and adjourned without naming a candidate. The leaders of the organization have decided to support the president should he again become a candidate.

Huerta, however, as given no indication of such intention.

Much comment has been caused by the selection by President Huerta of Eduardo Tamayo, a young leader of the Catholic party, for the portfolio of public instruction, which has been vacated by Jose Maria Lozano, who has been transferred to the department of communications and public works.

Tamayo has never held an important public office, but several persons who have been identified closely with political affairs.

No Money From Bankers.

It is learned that the bankers who recently agreed to finance the administration in the event of Huerta's election, 15,000,000 pesos have declined to offer any form of assistance during the coming election.

General Trevino, who was selected by General Huerta as minister of justice, has declined the post, giving as his reason ill health and his advanced age. It is expected that he will remain in the capital for the present.

Such a message has come from the president's message have voiced much approval of it, none of them, however, has been in a position to report.

HOW WILSON REGARDS MESSAGE OF HUERTA

Washington, September 18.—President Wilson let it be known today that he takes the view that there was nothing in General Huerta's message to the Mexican congress last Monday in any way inconsistent with the position adopted by the United States of the last note transmitted by Frederico Gamboa, Mexican minister to this country, to John Lind, the American ambassador.

The administration considers that Huerta, having been declared in the Gamboa note to be a provisional president, will not be a candidate in the approaching elections, and the United States will be prepared at any time to resume the negotiations through the usual channels.

Mr. Lind has been given during the last twenty-four hours, but has no instructions to take further steps unless the Huerta officials are prepared specifically to accept the Mexican interpretation of the last Gamboa note.

No announcement was forthcoming today as to the policy to be pursued with respect to the presence of American warships in Mexican waters, but the official view here is that there will be no relation on the point when the United States has no objection to the Mexican coast expire next month.

A satisfactory understanding is expected to be reached through diplomatic channels, as on previous occasions, when warships have been sent to protect American interests.

Official reports of the killing of the American W. R. Root received at the state department today. A dispatch from Guadalajara said Root was killed by a Mexican miner during a quarrel on September 2. No details of the quarrel or the death of the hands of Root at Lolo, Sinaloa, September 11, were given.

HORRORS OF MEXICO DETAILED BY REFUGEES

New York, September 18.—A dozen American refugees who arrived today from Tampico on the steamship San Pedro, Mr. Lillian Gonzalez, a widow and a native of Atlanta City, said she was forced to flee this life from San Luis Potosi.

"Hands of blood" threatened my house," said Mrs. Gonzalez, "and to use firearms several times to murder myself. I do not want to be a murderer, but I had to fire several times at bandits who came too near. The coast towns are in a state of terror, and coming continually from the interior of fugitives committed by the rebel soldiers."

"Bird Lagares, a former rebel of New Orleans, who sent from his plantation about 100 miles south of Tampico, said: 'I do not think the men were in danger.'"

HUS BARE ARRESTED AND HELD AT STATION

Pretty Mrs. Bessie Rich May Go to Detention Home Following Husband's Complaint.

At the order of her husband of only a few months, pretty Mrs. Bessie Rich, of 1415 West 10th street, was arrested by Motorcycle Policemen Palmer and Milam last night as she left a downtown home.

She was carried to police headquarters, where she was marked "hold" for the husband, who will endeavor to have her sent to some place of correction in Cincinnati. He came to headquarters shortly after the arrest, but would not enter the detention home.

Rich, according to his story told to the press, has been married for the first time for several days. Last night the telephone headquarters stated that she was at a theater in company with another woman.

Milam and Palmer went on the call, finding the girl with a young man, who was under arrest. She readily agreed to go to headquarters, and said that she would willingly make the trip.

On the prisoner's card, she gave the name of her husband, who has been married for less than a year.

MILIONAIRE ACCUSES GIRLS OF BLACKMAIL

George Bixby, on Trial for Immorality, Alleges That He Is a Victim.

Los Angeles, Cal., September 18.—George Bixby's attempt to prove that he was a victim of blackmailers was begun today at the trial of the Long Beach millionaire, charged with having contributed to the delinquency of two minor girls.

After Geo. H. Barker, one of the girls, had completed her direct testimony, the defense began a cross-examination that was so severe that Mrs. Barker fainted when she left the witness stand.

The direct examination she testified that after having been a cafeteria worker she had met Bixby several times early last winter at a resort known as the Jockey Club, the proprietor of which, Emma Goodman, alias Elsie Rivenberg, is now serving a year in the county jail.

Gave Her $100 a Week.

She declared Bixby had been introduced to her as Mr. King. Pointing to the evidence, she testified that she was the man, she had received, she said, approximately $400 and a gold cross and chain from him during six weeks.

A cross examination of the girl admitted she had been given $100 by Bixby on representing to her that she wanted to get married, and had received other sums for a trip east.

That part of the questioning over, Attorney Leconte Davis, for the defense, asked her:

"Did you not talk over with Attorney W. M. Weaver and Charles M. Keiley plans for obtaining money from me who frequented the Jockey Club?"

"I don't remember," answered the witness.

"Did they never suggest to you to get the names of the wealthy men who visited that resort, telling you money could be got from them?"

"I don't remember," answered the witness.

Davis tried vainly to make her admit there had been such a plot as one after another she spoke the name of men prominent in the law, the arts and business.

"The examination of Mrs. Barker will be resumed tomorrow."

UMBRELLA BY A ROUS MAN WHO FOLLOWED WOMAN

For near-divorce who are pestered by males shadowing them, pretty Mrs. Dan Walker—one herself of six girls—wood avenue, prescribes the following:

One durable umbrella, wielded by the man she had whipped. They did, prompted by a determination to whip somebody.

It's effective, alright, for she herself, gave it a test last night when she encountered a man dogging her footsteps on the far end of Glenwood avenue.

Mrs. Walker has filed suit against her husband, Dan Walker, a hat-maker, last night. Shortly after 10 o'clock she has already been held. They have been separated for a year or more. He lives at 19 Short street, and the two have been married for three years or more.

Mrs. Walker was visiting friends further down Glenwood avenue, where she started home. As she reached a corner, she was stopped by the man, who told her she was trailing her husband.

She Waited for Him.

She stopped in the darkness of the building that stood close to the walk, waiting for him. The man came on. As he reached her side she raised her parasol.
